

Sesquicentennial Dinner

The sesquicentennial dinner of the Tyne Rowing Club was recently held at the Civic Centre, Newcastle upon Tyne, to mark the 150th anniversary of the founding of the club. The president, James Nesbet, was chairman of the dinner, and the principal guests were The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Newcastle upon Tyne, Councillor and Mrs John Marshall, Sir Steve Redgrave and Lady Redgrave, and Diana Ellis, chairman of the Amateur Rowing Association Executive.

Left to right: Richard Walker-Arnott, the Lord Mayor (Councillor John Marshall), the Lady Mayoress (Audrey Marshall) and James Nesbet (president of the club).

Left to right: Keith Hotchkiss, Phil Wagstaff, Dr Ian Wagstaff and Aileen & Colin Scott.

Left to right: Diana Ellis, Martin Bell and Lady Redgrave.

Sir Steve Redgrave and Alex Shiel (captain of the club).

Left to right: David Raine, Dr Arnold Currall and John Bolter.

Left to right: Daniel Sadler, Lorna Chadwick and Alistair Tusting.

Left to right: Andrea McLoughlin, Karen Hutchinson, Adi Dolo and Caroline Imrie.

Left to right: Andrew Cook, Andrew Kirkwood, Ian Hunter and Julian Thompson.

Sir Steve Redgrave pictured with six junior members of the club. Left to right: Frances Fletcher, Hazel Smith, Tristan Pitt, Briony Pitt, Kieran Emery and Edward Hepburn.

Left to right: Tony Gibbs, Jennifer Kernahan and Russell Kernahan (dinner secretary).

Left to right: David Cowings, Elizabeth Cowings, Bill Parker, May Parker and Susan Bell.

Left to right: Dr Arnold Currall, David Raine and Russell Kernahan.